

Waterways Statistics - The rest of the story

Statistics - are they the story or just numbers that help to tell a story if used in context. Recent newspaper editorials have plucked a few statistics out of Corps of Engineers reports to malign the navigation system. We believe statistics only tell part of the story and the public is entitled to know the rest of the story. For a complete explanation of the nation's navigation system and the value of tributary elements to the nation, read this report from the Institute of Water Resources.

For more information

- Value of Tributary Elements of the Inland Waterway System